Comparing the UK to top countries for international students

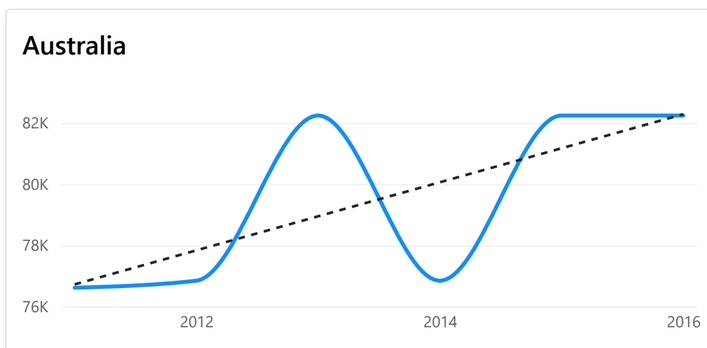

Data range: 2011-2016

Overall, the number of international students is rising year by year

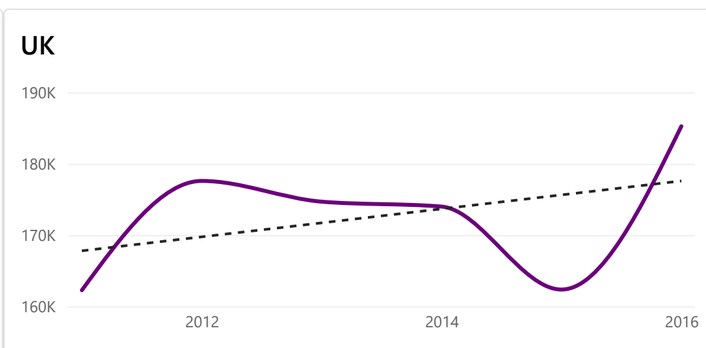

Interesting patterns

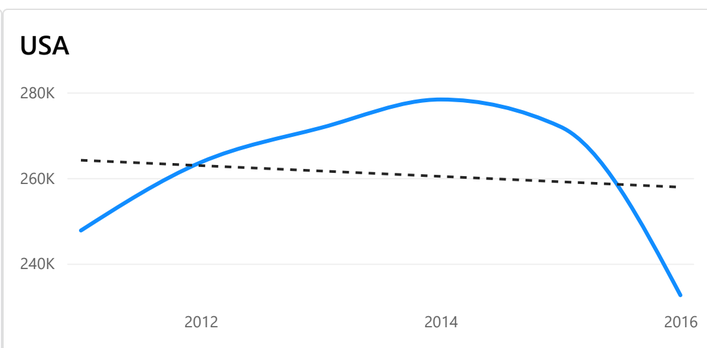

Australia international students is rising but had a large dip in 2014

The United Kingdom international students is rising but had a large dip in 2015

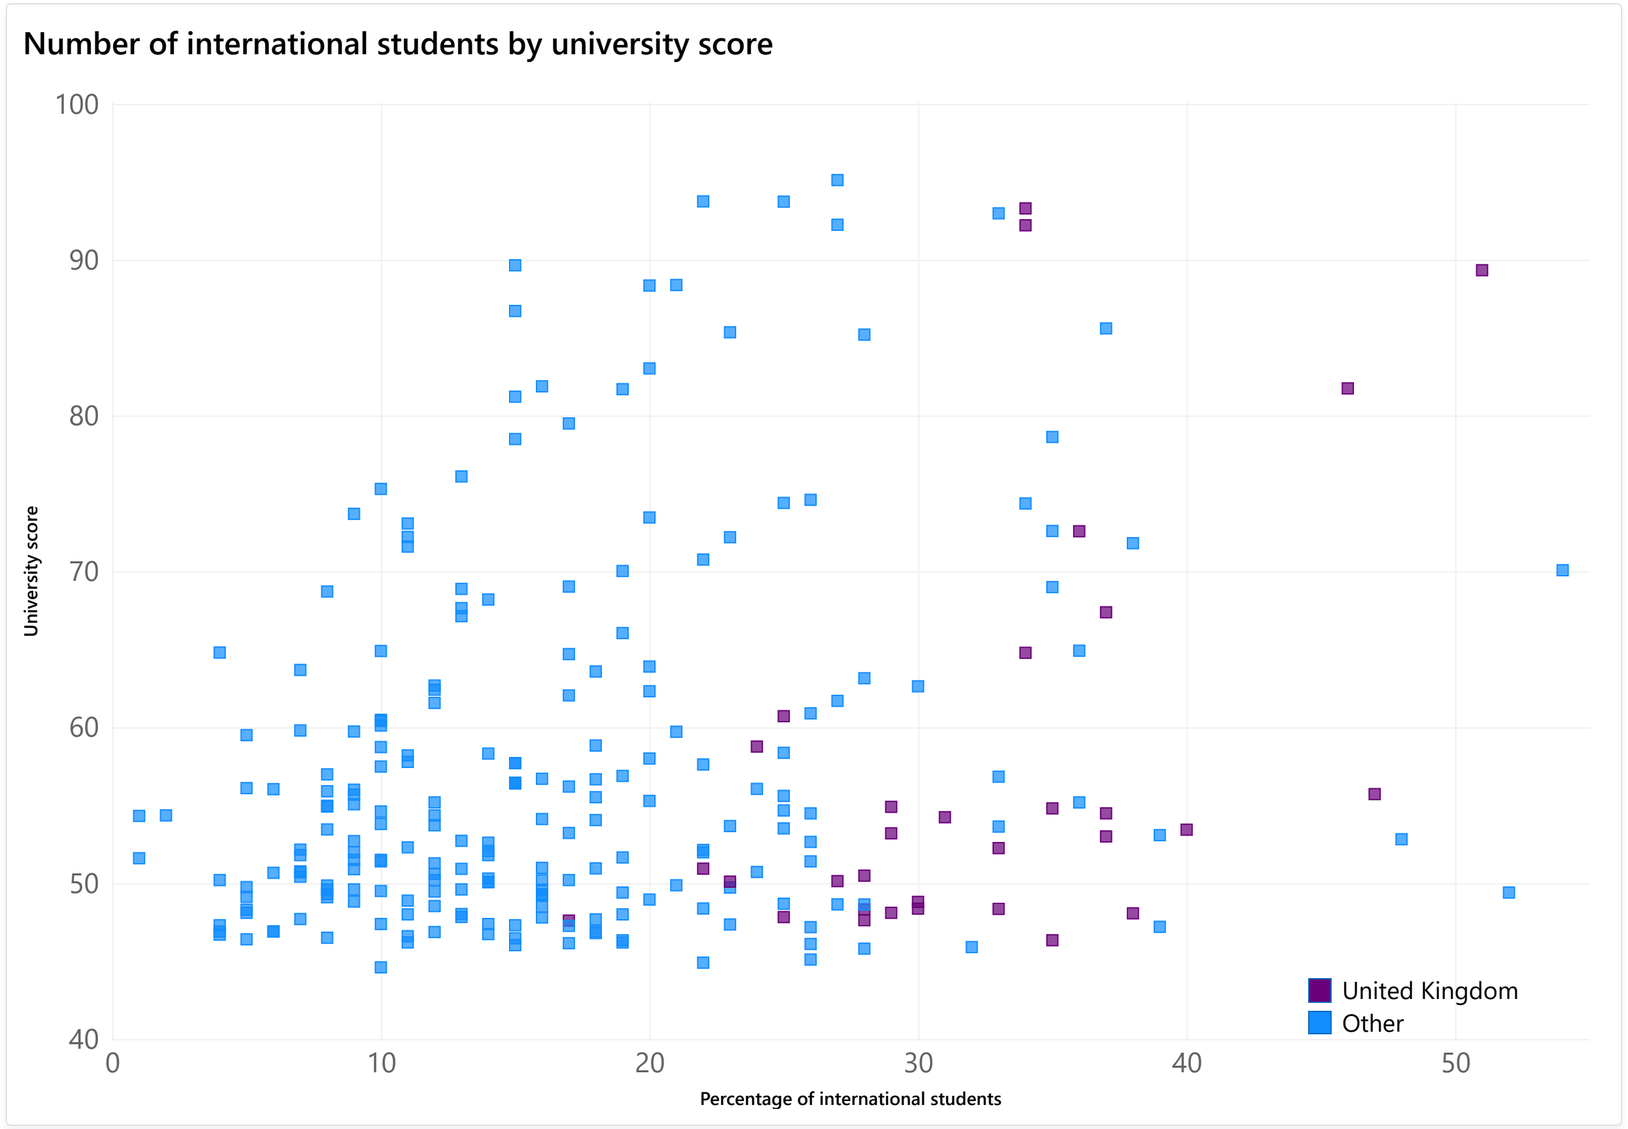

The United States take a larger amount of international students but is one of the few countries where the amount is declining

Students by university score

There is a moderate correlation between the university quality and the amount of percentage of international students they have

The United Kingdom Universities tend to have a higher then average percentage of international students, although the quality of those Universities vary.

Note: The university score is calculated using the teacher rating, research quality, citations, income, and student to staff ratio.

Comparing UK Universities

The university with the highest average of international students

First university_name

Imperial College London

Average of international_students_%

51.00

Photo: by Shadowssettle from Wikipedia

The university with the highest score

First university_name

University of Oxford

Average of international_students_%

34.00

Photo: by Peter Trimming from Wikipedia